Fulton Brownies and Manchester Each Took a Game.

GOOD CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

Saw Interesting Exhibition of Ball-The First Contest Was Specially Close and Eleven Innings Were Required to Decide Game.

Fate willed it that Manchester and Fulton should each celebrate last night a victory won at Broad-Street Park diamond yesterday afternoon, when the Fulton Brownies went down before the Manchesters in the first game, and then took revenge in the second. After eleven innings of fast playing the first game minings of fast playing the first game went to Manchester, with a score of 6 to 5. Knowles won the first game by his ability to swat the ball at all times, and especially in the eleventh, when a man hugged second. Four to one sent the Brownies home with the last game. the Brownies home with the last shows Hooker pitched both games for the boys from over the river and allowed the Fulton boys only sixteen hits in the twenty innings. To Hooker belongs most of the credit. He pitched the second game with as steady aim as the first, and deserved to win them both. Man after man retired to the bench before his swift curves.

Not before this season has there been Not before this season has there been greater interest and enthusiasm among spectators than was yesterday in the first game. When the ninth inning passed with the score tied there was howling, as of yore, as each individual player went to the bat. Knowles, who struck well all through the game, came un in well all through the game, came up in the eleventh when one man was out and one runner on second. The second ball wn him suited his eye, and as ball and bat met, there was a howl. Mor-gan reached for it, but 'twas a "peach" and scored the necessary run.

MANCHESTER WON THE FIRST GAME

With the Brownies at bat the first with the Brownies at bat the list game opened. Sharp got against the first ball thrown and made first nicely. He stole second a minute later, while Darby fanned the air, then went out to first from catcher, who failed to handle the third strike out. Eacho knocked one right down to first and went to the bench. Brockwell, an old Petersburg bench. Brockwell, an old Ferensolla player, who is holding down first base for the Brownies, hit safely enough to score Sharp, and Morgan retired the side with a pop fly. Holland for Manchester drove a liner to second and went back. Crostle pasted a nice one and kept on around to third by errors. Knowles for the first and only time failed to get a hit, striking out. Fritzchae lined out a pretty one and Crostic came over the plate. Hogan (a released Brownle) struck out. It was one to one, with the crowd balanced.

ANOTHER RUN.

By two errors the Brownies forced anby two errors the Brownes force and another run over, in the second, while Manchester lagged behind. Manchester got one over in the third and Brownies pulled in the rear. The fourth and fifth innings were blanks to each side and the sixth rolled around. Brockwell, for the Brownies overed with a study. the Brownies, opened with a single, stealing second shortly afterwards. Morgan pasted a nice one, bringing Brockwell home. Jim McEvoy made it a two-bagger, scoring Morgan. Gathright punched and Elmore lifted a high one to centre-field. John McEvoy hit safely. scoring his brother, and Sharp went out with three balls. Manchester got angry at this kind of treatment and went in to tie the score in their half. They got two of the runs in this manner; Crostic went out to right-field, and Knowles smacked out a two-bagger. Fritchae followed with a grounder and McEvoy threw to second to make a double play Each dropped the ball and neither player was out. Hogan went back to the was caught. As for the Brownies, they were through scoring in the ending of the sixth, while Manchester forced another run over in the eighth inning. This tied the score, and the ninth opened. The tenth was exciting. The Brownles could do nothing, but the boys from Manchester worked the bases full, and then couldn't score,

ELEVENTH INNING. By an error of short Knowles reached first. The man with the name was struck with the ball. He walled. Knowles stole third when he should have held second. Hogan and Driver fanned air, and Jennings got four balls called on him. Then O'Hara went out from the pitcher to first and the eleventh inning opened. The Brownies failed to tally in their half and Manchester waltzed forth with Hooker wielding the stick. He went to the bench after second had thrown down to first. Holland struck out and then was thrown out by the catcher to first. With two men out Crostic, swatted the ball good and hard, but only made one base. He stole second, and when Knowles ambled to the plate with a swinging motion of the bat, McEvoy settled down to pitch. Two strikes were called on him, when. Oh! my, the ball landed away out in left garden, while Crestic danced a rag-time on the home plate.

BROWNIES CAPTURED THE SECOND GAME

The Brownies changed pitchers for the second battle, while Manchester had no other curveologist but Hocker. "It's Up to you, my dear boy," sang out the manager, and the grand cried with the same conduction. ager, and the grand stand said, "What a shame!" Sharp, for the Brownies, nailed it hard to center, but Holland was there. There was no one against the fonce where John McEvoy drove one, however, and he stopped on third bag. Darby went out to center also, Eacho hit safe, and Sharp tallied, making the first run of the game. Brockwell popped up to short, and 'twas over. Manchester made some desperate efforts to score in their half, but failed. In the fifth Jennings, the man who plays left garden for Man-chester, and who has not struck the ball before in many moons, did actually hit it for two bases. Spectators gasped, Jennings himself stopping a minute to look at what he had done. Northington went out from short to first, and Hooker placed one for center field. Holland pasted a ball nicely, scoring Jennings. Crostic got one down to the pitcher, who threw to first. This is all Manchester could possibly get. The Brownies made one run in
